The Canadian Webinar Series on Sexual and Reproductive Health and Rights of Women Living with HIV

Co-authors: Angela Kaida¹, Tracey Conway², ³, Wangari Tharao⁴, Renee Masching⁵, Neora Pick⁶, ⁷, Sandra Godoy⁴, Valerie Nicholson¹, ⁵, Kerrigan Beaver³, Sarah Watt¹, Rebecca Gormley¹, ⁸, Mina Kazemi¹, Mona Loutfy³, Manjulaa Narasimhan⁹

1. Simon Fraser University, Vancouver, BC; 2. Canadian Positive People Network, Dunrobin, ON; 3. Women’s College Research Institute, Toronto, ON; 4. Women’s Health in Women’s Hands Community Health Centre, Toronto, ON; 5. Canadian Aboriginal AIDS Network, Dartmouth, NS; 6. Oak Tree Clinic, BC Women’s Hospital, Vancouver, BC; 7. Division of Infectious Diseases, Department of Medicine, University British Columbia, Vancouver, BC; 8. BC Centre for Excellence in HIV/AIDS, Vancouver, BC; 9. Department of Reproductive Health and Research, World Health Organization, Geneva, Switzerland.

Background
In February 2017, the World Health Organization (WHO) released the Global Consolidated Guideline on the Sexual and Reproductive Health and Rights (SRHR) of Women Living with HIV (WLWH), which:

- Outlines evidence-based recommendations and best practice statements to uphold human rights and promote gender equality;
- Centers the values and perspectives of WLWH for the first time;
- Emphasizes the influence of constraining and enabling social environments on SRHR;
- Provides guidance for countries to implement quality services for advancing SRHR of WLWH.

Methods
As a Canadian response to the Consolidated Guideline, the Canadian HIV Women’s Sexual and Reproductive Health Cohort Study (CHIWOS) partnered with the WHO and five leading Canadian HIV and women organizations to design & deliver a four-part webinar series.

The webinar series explored the intersecting social positions and structural inequities that influence women’s experiences of SRHR in Canada. Webinar discussions aimed to centre the voices, perspectives, and priorities of WLWH.

Learning objectives for the webinar series included:
- Define constraining and enabling environments that shape WLWH’s SRHR;
- Present key Canadian research findings;
- Disseminate Canadian best practices in implementation for addressing SRHR;
- Showcase the importance of community-academic partnerships and a commitment to the Meaningful Involvement of Women living with HIV (MIWA principle) in practice;
- Offer recommendations for a national action plan to advance SRHR for WLWH.

We collaborated with the Implementing Best Practice (IBP) initiative to advertise the webinar series to a large national and international stakeholder audience, through email, partner websites, and social media.

Figure 1. Guiding principles of the Canadian Webinar Series on Sexual and Reproductive Health and Rights of Women Living with HIV

Results
Between October 2017 and March 2018, we hosted four inter-disciplinary bimonthly webinars on the following four prioritized SRHR topics:

- Trauma and Violence Aware Care
- Supporting Safer Disclosure
- Reproductive Health, Rights, and Justice
- Resilience, Self-Efficacy, and Peer Support

Results (continued)
Each webinar adhered to a similar structure, including:

- Opening by Indigenous elder or knowledge keeper
- Welcome and introduction by moderator
- Topic overview based on WHO Consolidated Guideline
- Perspectives from WLWH
- Overview of CHIWOS research findings
- Best practices in implementation
- Moderated Q&A and discussion

The webinar series featured 24 presenters from across Canada, including WLWH, representatives from AIDS Service Organizations, frontline health and social care providers, clinicians, and researchers.

Attendees included a national and international audience of WLWH, academic, community, practitioner, government, and funder stakeholders from 62 countries.

Key priorities emerging from presentations and discussions were captured to inform a national action plan to advance the SRHR of WLWH, including:
- Address the social realities of inequity and how it shapes the opportunity of ‘choice’;
- Foster enabling environments by creating opportunities for peer support & leadership;
- Implement and integrate trauma and violence aware care within all levels of intervention.

Webinars were recorded and are publicly available online at the WHO HRP Library and the IBP Initiative Library. Links to all four webinar recordings and other webinar materials can be found at: www.chiwos.ca.

Table 1. Global participation on the Canadian webinar series on SRHR of women living with HIV (September 2017-March 2018)

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Webinar</th>
<th>Registrants</th>
<th>Attendees</th>
<th>Total Views*</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Trauma and Violence Aware Care</td>
<td>209</td>
<td>106</td>
<td>514</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Supporting Safer HIV Disclosure</td>
<td>190</td>
<td>76</td>
<td>169</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Reproductive Health, Rights, and Justice</td>
<td>170</td>
<td>79</td>
<td>291</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Resilience, Self-Efficacy, and Peer Support</td>
<td>256</td>
<td>100</td>
<td>182</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>TOTAL across the webinar series</td>
<td>825</td>
<td>361</td>
<td>1,156</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

*Includes webinar attendees and viewers who accessed webinars through WHO HRP Library as of April 06, 2018

"[The most valuable part of the webinar was] engaging peers to share the info they helped collect. It gives us our voices and signifies we are valued and have something to give." - Webinar attendee

Discussion
Through an international and national academic-community partnership, this webinar series created an essential opportunity for Canada to demonstrate global leadership in prioritizing women-centred approaches to advancing actions to improve the SRHR by, with, and for WLWH. A diverse audience of WLWH, academic, community, practitioner, and government stakeholders came together to learn from, liaise, and share with one another.

Building on this webinar series, we hosted an ancillary event at CAHR 2018 with key stakeholders to discuss policy, programming, and research considerations to lay the foundation for a national action plan to advance the SRHR of WLWH. Further opportunities will be provided to offer feedback online in order to integrate diverse perspectives from across Canada.

We gratefully acknowledge all of the webinar presenters, including: Valerie Nicholson, Angela Kaida, Manjulaa Narasimhan, Carmen Logie, Neora Pick, Jesleen Rana, Jay MacGillivary, Tracey Conway, Wangari Tharao, Kerrigan Beaver, Mona Loutfy, Jasmine Cotnam, Marvelous Muchenje, Sandra Godoy, Deborah Money, Krista Williams, Britanny Cameron, Saara Greene, Frederique Chabot, Allyson Ion, Doris Peltier, Shazia Islam, and Kath Webster.

Presenters have no conflicts of interest to disclose.

For more information about the Canadian Webinar Series please contact the webinar coordinator: Sarah Watt: sawatt@sfu.ca

The Canadian Webinar Series is grateful to receive funding from: